Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill requires a school board to comply with a school district resident's written request to inspect a textbook, curriculum, or instructional material within 14 days.

Under the bill, a school board must comply with a school district resident's written request to inspect curricula or instructional materials used in a school in the school district by no later than 14 days after the school board receives the written request. The bill also requires each school board to adopt procedures under which the school board is able to produce for inspection any curriculum or instructional material used in a school in the school district in fewer than 14 days. The bill defines "curriculum" as a curriculum plan adopted by a school board to comply with state law and defines "instructional material" as any course content or resource included in a curriculum.

Similarly, the bill requires a school board to comply with a school district resident's written request to inspect a textbook on the school board's list of adopted textbooks by no later than 14 days after the school board receives the written request. Under the bill, a school board must also adopt procedures under which the school board is capable of producing for inspection any textbook included on the school board's list of adopted textbooks in no more than 14 days. Current law requires each school board to adopt all textbooks necessary for use in schools in the school district and file a list of adopted textbooks with the school district clerk. Under the bill, each school board must also post the list of adopted textbooks on the school board's website.

Finally, the bill specifies that nothing in the bill may be construed to require a school board to take an action that would violate federal copyright law and that the bill does not limit any rights a school district resident has to inspect or copy records under open records law.
